

CCM Global Equity ETF CCMG

May 1, 2024

FUND OVERVIEW

CCMG seeks to achieve long-term capital appreciation.

Fundamental in its offering, CCMG provides:

- Diversified equity exposure to domestic and international companies, as well as emerging markets, in a single fund;
- Exposure to large, mid, and small cap stocks by investing in individual stocks and ETFs;
- A systematic, active investment strategy with a focus on profitable companies selling at attractive valuations that have a history of returning capital to shareholders; and
- A distinct risk management focus designed to provide investors with an investment portfolio that complements the inherent risks involved in financial planning.

Please read the prospectus and/or summary prospectus carefully before investing.

Shares of the ETF may be bought or sold throughout the day at their market price on the exchange on which they are listed. The market price of an ETF's shares may be at, above or below the ETF's net asset value ("NAV") and will fluctuate with changes in the NAV as well as supply and demand in the market for the shares. Shares of the ETF may only be redeemed directly with the ETF at NAV by Authorized Participants, in very large creation units. There can be no guarantee that an active trading market for the Fund's shares will develop or be maintained, or that their listing will continue or remain unchanged. Buying or selling the Fund's shares on an exchange may require the payment of brokerage commissions and frequent trading may incur brokerage costs that detract significantly from investment returns.

Equity Securities Risk: The Fund invests in publicly traded equity securities, and their value may fluctuate, sometimes rapidly and unpredictably, which means a security may be worth more or less than when it was purchased. Market Capitalization Risk: Investments in mid-capitalization companies may be more volatile than investments in large-capitalization companies. Foreign (Non-U.S.) Investment Risk: Investments in securities of non-U.S. issuers may involve more risk than those of U.S. issuers. These securities may fluctuate more widely in price and may be more difficult to trade than domestic securities due to adverse market, economic, political, regulatory, or other factors. Depository Receipts Risk: Depository receipts are certificates evidencing ownership of shares of a foreign issue. These certificates are issued by depository banks and generally trade on an established market in the U.S. or elsewhere. The underlying shares are held in trust by a custodian bank or similar financial institution. The depository bank may not have physical custody of the underlying securities at all times and may charge fees for various services, including forwarding dividends and interest and corporate actions. Depository receipts are alternatives to directly purchasing the underlying foreign securities in their national markets and currencies. Depository receipts are subject to the risks associated with investing directly in foreign securities. Emerging Markets Risk: Emerging markets may be more volatile and less liquid than more developed markets and therefore may involve greater risks. Currency Risk: Currency Risk is the risk that the values of foreign investments may be affected by changes in the currency rates or exchange control regulations. Real Estate Investment Trust Risk: Through its investments in REITs, the Fund is subject to the risks of investing in the real estate market, including decreases in property revenues, increases in interest rates, increases in property taxes and operating expenses, legal and regulatory changes, a lack of credit or capital, defaults by borrowers or tenants, environmental problems, and natural disasters. The Fund may invest in derivatives, which are often more volatile than other investments and may magnify the Fund's gains or losses. Risk of Investing in Other ETFs: To the extent that the Fund invests in other funds, a shareholder will bear two layers of asset-based expenses, which could reduce returns compared to a direct investment in the underlying funds. New Fund Risk: The Fund is a recently organized, giving prospective investors a limited track record on which to base their investment decision.
